PRESERVATIVE TO KEEP SPECIMENS

Washington, May 28.—After years of experimenting scientists of the national museum have discovered a preservative for keeping specimens of fish and variety of reptiles in their natural colors. The scheme provides for coloring the specimens while alive with an alcohol resisting paint so that a bright colored fish can be mounted in clear alcohol and remain lifelike indefinitely.

The experiments have been tried on a number of fish specimens and have proved a success. The same experiments will be used with snakes, lizards and other reptiles.

The preservation of fish has always proved a problem for museums. Preserved in alcohol they quickly lose all their distinctive coloring and are uninteresting for display purposes.

AUTOMOBILE TOURISTS WILL GO BY THE WAY OF ELY

The Ely Exposition agency official notification has been received by the Ely Auto club from W. McK. White, tour chairman of the Indiana Automobile Manufacturers' association, that the route for the manufacturers' tour to the coast has been decided upon and that the party expects to arrive in Ely at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Monday, July 21. The next morning the tourists will leave at 7 o'clock for the west by way of Eureka and Austin, expecting to take lunch at the latter place.

Salt Lake will be reached Thursday July 17, Saturday a run will be made to Ogden and back to Salt Lake and the start from Salt Lake for Ely will be made Sunday morning.

The sign board committee this morning let a contract for furnishing and erecting the 147 signs that are needed on the Ely-Salt Lake route by way of Kinsley. Where the route passes through towns, telegraph poles and fences will be utilized for indicating the route to be followed by painting yellow bands on them. At places where there is little doubt as to the course, straight iron posts striped with yellow and black will be used, but wherever there is any chance for tourists unfamiliar with the country to make a mistake, substantial galvanized signboards bolted to boiler-flue posts will be used. The signboards will be lettered in black on a yellow background and contain information as to the distance from Ely and Salt Lake and the name of the Ely Auto club, with a warning of the penalty for defacing or molesting them in any way. The expense of signboarding the route for the 300 miles will be $350.

PROVO BURGLAR'S PLUNDER IS FOUND

Provo, May 28.—For the first time in several months Provo had a burglary last night. The Rochdale store No. 2 on West Center street being entered and groceries to the amount of $50 taken. The loss was not known until 7 o'clock this morning, when Clarence Rasmussen, the manager, opened up for business and discovered that a number of things had disappeared from the store.

The city marshal's office was at once notified and Policemen Jesse Manwaring and Vern Johnson were detailed on the case. They followed the tracks of the wagon north about one and a half miles to the home of Charles W. Anderson, where, search being made, the goods were discovered, among them being a sack of sugar, sack of flour, two hams, slab of breakfast bacon, two plums of tobacco, ten tins of smoking tobacco, a dozen cans of arduines, two five-pound cans of coffee and numerous other goods and package stuff.

Mr. Anderson and the stolen goods were brought to the sheriff's office, where it is said that Anderson admitted entering the store at about 3 o'clock this morning. Other stolen articles were discovered by the officers, among them being a complete paper hanger's outfit belonging to Mont Pulham.

The small express wagon in which the stolen goods were carted away in belonged to the children of A. O. Smoot, who lives just across the street from the Rochdale store.

Mr. Anderson is about 40 years of age and has a wife and five small children. Anderson a short time back was employed on one of the construction gangs building the interurban railroad here.

DISCRETION.

"I say, Tom, lend me another $10, will you?"

"Heavens! Why don't you go to work and earn money?"

"Don't dare to, my boy. People would think the governor had disinherited me, and that would ruin my credit."—Boston Transcript.

NO COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC HEALTH

Washington, May 28.—There will be no house committee on public health under the present plan of the house leaders. It was declared today, although the creation of such a committee has been vigorously advocated. It was assumed that if the committee was named it would be headed by Representative Foster, of Illinois, a physician himself, and who as a member of the rules committee has been active in health matters.

The decision of the leaders was forecasted yesterday on the floor of the house when Representative Payne of New York asked if there was any intention to appoint committees on new subjects such as public health.

Mr. Underwood replied that the ways and means committee was not prepared yet to submit its committee recommendations.

It was doubted today if a health committee would be created at any time in the near future. Leaders feel the subject is amply provided for in the commerce committee.

where such legislation has been considered in the past.

FAMOUS WHITE HOUSE MINT PATCH

Washington, May 28.—The White House mint patch, referred to by Colonel Roosevelt in his testimony in the libel suit he is pressing at Marquette, Mich., promises to become as much an object of interest to capital visitors as the Washington monument or the library of congress. Already tourists are asking the White House police to point out the bed that gave up its fragrant leaves for Colonel Roosevelt's occasional juleps.

The bed, 15 feet long by 4 feet wide, is situated alongside a lattice work house used by the White House laundries in which to dry clothes. Although mint always has been within easy reach of the White House porch, the present "patch" was established by President McKinley. President Taft seldom used, although it furnished its part to many a refreshing julep served to Mr. Taft's callers.

President Wilson also uses it for garnishing spring lamb.
